Are You Ready? We Are!

Unless all signs fail the coming trade for Fall will be a record breaker. Under the stimulus of a big demand all cloak materials are growing scarcer and prices higher, and there will be no opportunity for securing desirable garments later in the season. Our line of Cloaks and Capes is at hand, NEW, STYLISH and UP-TO-DATE. No last season's trash offered you. Prices range from $5.00, for a good substantial warm Jacket, up to $20.00 for a fine cloth garment, front, rolled collar, medium sleeves, with braids, buttons and fancy linings. We also show a full line of Misses and Children's jackets, sizes 10 years to 18 years. Prices from $4.00 to 6.00. Remember we bought our stock of Capes and Jackets before this market advance in the price of materials and labor, and you will share in the advantage by way of the exceedingly reasonable prices we are asking for our garments.

HUBBS & HAZELRIGG.

FOR CHILDREN.

Doing Errands Altogether With the Heart.

Tom was reading about a boy who did errands with heart as well as his hands and feet. "Did errands with heart?" Tom said in a vexed tone, "that's a silly way to talk."

Grandma, who heard Tom's remark, said, "Will you go to the attic, and bring down an old jacket at which you will find on the old blue chest?"

Tom drew a long sigh; then he frowned and stretched and yawned, and he said to his sister, "Can't you go; you are not doing anything."

Belle did not wish to go, so Tom dragged himself slowly out of the room, and after awhile came back with a sour face, and drawing the jacket along by one sleeve.

"Looks like me," said grandma, "are not much like the boy in the paper?"

"Yes, you do errands with your hands and feet and not with your heart. Your feet and hands obeyed, but the best part of your obedience was left out. If I should ask you to go to my closet for a bag of candy for yourself, would you go for it just as you went for the jacket?"

He thought he would go fast enough for that.

Then said grandma, "Real love does not seek one's own pleasure, but is kind and patient and unselfish."

"If an errand is done, what does it matter how it is done?" asked Tom.

"Service without love is like sounding brass, or tinkling cymbal," said grandma.

Then Tom understood about the boy who did errands with his heart, and when his mother called him to the well of water for her, he tried to do that boy—Westminster Junior.

THE OLD-FASHIONED WOMAN.

In Many Ways She is Truer to Her Womanhood by Being So.

"When one judges truly what it is to be 'old-fashioned' in some of the modern 'progressive' ideas, it does not appear so bad," writes Edward W. Bok, discussing "On Being Old-Fashioned" in the Ladies' Home Journal. "It may be true that one who refuses to be so essentially 'modern' in all phases of life misses some things. But then these 'progressive' spirits seem to miss some things, too; they seem to miss in about everything they do, and incidentally miss, as well, the true essence and aim of life. And there are often strong compensations in the attitude of the 'old-fashioned.' It brings fewer after-regrets; fewer pictures one wants to blot out. An indifference to healthy progress is injurious to any one. But when progress seeks to improve upon those elements in life which are God-ordained, the wisest of us are those who stand still or fall out of the ranks. There are some things in this world which even the wonderful genius of this century cannot improve upon. They were fashioned by a skill beyond our ken. And we would better let them 'Forward,' commands the old proverb, but then it adds, 'not too fast.' The cautious woman, the home-loving woman, the woman fond of her children, and with a belief in God, who gave them to her, the woman of pure heart and good purpose, the woman

Food That Nourishes the Nerves.

Any good wholesome diet will build up the nerves. The food that nourishes the end of the little finger nourishes also the brain and the entire body. Each part is but a portion of a perfect whole, and we cannot select food to build especially one part of the human structure. Fatty foods are supposed to be beneficial to the nerves, as they cushion them and counteract the irritating conditions. Starchy foods, fatty meats and over-eating tend to the accumulation of fat.—Ladies' Home Journal.

This little mountain town is to have a new weekly paper. D. D. Sublett and Jeff Prater, both capable and well known business men, are to start the much-needed enterprise.

THE DREAD OF DEATH.

Dwight L. Moody's Boyish Horror of the Grim Destroyer.

"What most concerns us," writes Evangelist Moody in Ladies' Home Journal, "is the relation which Christ's Resurrection has to our death and future life. So many people live in a fearful dread of death and the grave, I believe, just because they do not study this doctrine. They speak of death and the judgment with a shudder, and their vision seems to be unable to pierce beyond. I well remember how in my native village in New England it used to be customary, as a funeral procession left the church, for the bell in the burying ground to toll as many times as the deceased was years old. How anxiously I would count those strokes of the bell to see how long I might reckon on living. Sometimes there would be seventy or eighty tolls, and I would give a sigh of relief to think I had so many years to live. But at other times there would be only a few years tolled, and then a horror would seize me as I thought that I, too, might soon be claimed as a victim by that dread monster, death. Death and judgment were a constant source of fear to me till I realized the fact that neither shall ever have any hold on a child of God. In his letter to the Romans the Apostle Paul has showed, in most direct language, that there is no condemnation for a child of God, but he is passed from under the power of law, and in the Epistle to the Corin-

YALE'S PRESIDENT

Does Not Approve of the Crusade Against Foot Ball.

President Eliot, of Harvard, makes the following statement over his signature:

"The grounds on which arguments are based for the legal prohibition of inter-collegiate foot ball do not seem sufficient, in my mind, to warrant favor. I understand that a bill has been passed in the Georgia Legislature making the playing of foot ball a crime, simply on the ground that serious, and sometimes fatal accidents are liable to occur in hard fought contests. The direct cause for the passing of the bill was, I believe, the death of a foot ball player, who was injured in the game between the Georgia University and the University of Virginia.

"But if we stop to consider other sports, we find that these are, every year, serious accidents in base ball, boxing, fencing and other gymnasium games. Rowing and sailing are enjoyable pastimes, yet one reads of many drowning every year. This does not seem to lessen the interest in rowing or sailing.

"Everybody cannot play foot ball. It is only the strong and well built men who can expect to play the game with any degree of success. Therefore, I do not favor foot ball for everybody. It is, of course, a valuable exercise to those who, as I say, are able to play it.

"So I think foot ball should not be prohibited without just cause. I have never heard of any city or State ordinance prohibiting the playing of the game before the bill in Georgia was passed, and I repeat, the grounds on which the passage of the bill was effected are not sufficient to attract my favor.

Some More Foot Ball.

TERRE HAUTE, IND., Nov. 20, 1897.

Editors ADVOCATE:

Dear Sirs:—I have been reading the Sentinel's attack of foot ball, and also your defense of it.

"Although not an accomplished writer like the authors of the Sentinel's articles, nor yet a foot ball player, I thought I would try and write a little in defense of the game, and you may publish it or not, as you see fit.

I have been up here in the midst of a large number of college towns for months, and have seen or heard directly from nearly every game in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and in all time no one has been seriously hurt. I will admit that foot ball is comparatively rough, and also that it is very hard work; but the fact that the players, who are the men who get hurt, never quit or complain against the game, seems to prove to me that the game is not so bad after all.

In the Yale-Harvard game that the S.-D. raised such a to-do about, there was no man hurt so badly that a little witch-hazel or sticking plaster would not fix as good as new.

It is true that if you take a lot of men who know nothing of the science of the game and try to make them play ball, some one is likely to get hurt. But (as is the case in all colleges), if you take picked men and carefully train them for a month or more, look after their eating, see that they don't drink or smoke, and make them keep regular hours, it puts them in shape to play and makes men of them.

Statistics show that not one man in ten thousand gets seriously injured, and the good done the other 9,999 by the training and exercising more than counterbalances the injury done the one. Nothing in the world makes clearer-headed, stronger men than foot ball. Men get hurt from riding bicycles, but you can't keep the wheel down.

I once knew a boy to die of croup contracted while playing marbles, but would not call marbles a dangerous game. Foot ball is a fine game, and is played by as fine a set of men as can be found anywhere.

Yours truly,
C. H. HOWELL.

Defective Jail.

The new stone jail erected here six years ago has proven to be a failure. It is impossible to keep it comfortable; the arrangement for ventilating it does not work satisfactorily and the shrewd criminals who have been confined therein have had no trouble in escaping. The claims for excellency made by its builders and believed at the time by the Magistrates, have proven to be unfounded, and it is agreed now that a steel jail inside of brick walls would have been far better and cheaper than the massive stone structure which was erected. It cost the county $9,000 in cash and the material in the old jail, and it is now deemed absolutely necessary that steel cages inside the cells, or some other contrivance for the safe-keeping of the prisoners, be adopted at once.—Shelby Sentinel.
